

Writing First year

Lecture 3

Prepared by: Prof. Dr. Haider Bairmani

Title: Combining Sentences Using 'But' and 'And'

The purpose is enhancing Coherence in Writing

Combining Sentences with "And"

Explanation: "And" is used to connect two ideas that are related or similar.

Example 1: "I like to read books. I enjoy watching movies." → "I like to read books, and I enjoy watching movies".

Example 2: "She enjoys hiking. She loves swimming." → "She enjoys hiking, and she loves swimming".

Combining Sentences with "But"

Explanation: "But" is used to connect two contrasting or opposing ideas.

Example 1: "She loves hiking. She is afraid of heights." → "She loves hiking, but she is afraid of heights".

Example 2: "He enjoys playing soccer. He dislikes running." → "He enjoys playing soccer, but he dislikes running".

Using "But" and "And" in the Same Sentence

Explanation: Sometimes, "but" and "and" are used together to create complex relationships between ideas.

Example: "She loves hiking, and she often goes on long hikes, but she is afraid of heights".

Importance in Writing

Highlight how using "but" and "and" effectively can enhance coherence and flow in writing.

Emphasize the importance of considering the relationship between ideas when choosing between "but" and "and".
