

Type of sentence

1. Declarative

- A declarative sentence is a type of sentence that makes a statement or provides information.
- Here are a few examples of declarative sentence
  - 1. "I enjoy reading books."
  - 2. "The cat is sleeping on the couch."
  - 3. "She graduated from university last month."
  - 4. "Water boils at 100 degrees Celsius."
  - 5. "The concert starts at 8 pm."
- ...The purpose of declarative sentences is to convey facts, opinions, descriptions, or information without seeking an answer or posing a question.

2. Imperative

- An imperative sentence is a type of sentence that gives a command, makes a request, or offers advice or instructions. It is used to express a direct and often urgent statement or instruction.
- Imperative sentences typically do not have a subject, as the subject is usually understood to be "you," .
- They often begin with a verb in the base form (infinitive) or with a verb in the base form followed by "please" to make the request more polite.
- Here are a few examples of imperative sentences:
  - 1. Sit down and be quiet.
  - 2. Please close the door when you leave.
  - 3. Take out the trash before you go to bed.
  - 4. Don't forget to bring your passport.
  - 5. Be sure to double-check your work.
- In these examples, the imperative sentences are giving commands or instructions to the listener. The verb forms used ("sit," "close," "take," "forget," "be," etc.) show that the sentences are imperative.

3. Interrogative

- Interrogative sentences, also known as question sentences, are a type of sentence that are formed to ask a question or seek information.
- These sentences are characterized by their structure and the use of interrogative words (question words) or a question mark at the end.
- Here are a few examples of interrogative sentences:
  - 1. "What is your favorite color?"
  - 2. "Did you enjoy the movie?"
  - 3. "Where is the nearest library?"
  - 4. "Are you coming to the party?"
  - 5. "How do you make pancake

4. An exclamatory

- An exclamatory sentence is a type of sentence that expresses strong emotions, excitement, surprise, or any intense feeling.
- It is used to convey a strong reaction or to emphasize a certain point. Exclamatory sentences are typically punctuated with an exclamation mark (!) at the end to indicate the heightened emotion.
- Here are a few examples of exclamatory sentences:
  - 1. "What a beautiful sunset!"
  - 2. "I can't believe we won the game!"
  - 3. "How amazing is that performance!"
  - 4. "What a lovely surprise!"
  - 5. "Wow, that's incredible!"